

Deafness Awareness Week - Launch party

Deafness Research UK is the country's leading medical research charity for people with hearing loss, tinnitus and other hearing problems.

On 9 May, the charity hosted an event to not only mark Deafness Awareness Week (7-13 May) but to also highlight the impact of hearing impairment on families, what the charity has achieved to support them and its plans for the future.

The occasion was attended by more than 90 of the charity's supporters, researchers and the media.

Picture: Malcom Boothman of Cirrus Healthcare with the Cirrus PR team at the Hearing Link Deafness Awareness Week launch party.

